Elba council members receive updates from 2001 figures

by Ferrin Cox, Publisher

The Elba City Council met in a brief session Monday evening with all members present.

They heard Mayor James Grimes' review of the December financial statement, and note that revenue is under budget (overall) but fairly normal for this time of the year. The mayor explained that total expenses appear to be far above budget, but paying for the two new police cars early in the fiscal year caused this imbalance.

The mayor told council members that the budget for last year has been completed and reflects what was already known.

Police Chief R. W. Whitworth presented an annual recap of activity of Animal Control given copies of an application for authority to organize a "Downtown Development Authority for the City of Elba."

City Attorney Jeff Kelley explained that the council members should be prepared for the necessary three citizens to present a signed application to them at their next meeting for approval.

He said approval would actually be giving them permission to incorporate the development authority for the long range job of a needed face lift for downtown Elba.

Police Chief R. W. Whitworth presented an annual recap of activity of Animal Control Officer George Homyak. It shows a total of 674 animals picked up and housed in the local pound during the past year.

Of these, 61 were picked up by the owners and 168 adopted by new owners.

City Clerk Wayne Gfantham reported city crews are patching potholes in city streets and have been doing clean up jobs along city streets and rights-of-ways.

Gfantham announced he is nearing completion on the necessary legal documents to begin an aggressive program to remove a large portion of the abandoned automobiles from city streets.

Council member E. M. Burch acknowledged a number of citizens have made favorable comments concerning the clean up efforts.

Councilman Ronnie Hammond asked about plans to resurfacing with city funds or grants on streets in the various districts of the community. Grimes reported the long discussed project to resurface several downtown streets and said it is still waiting on funding approval from the state.

Grimes also noted the tight budget and said that without a bond issue there would probably be very little additional paying this year. He did ask council

Despite continued dispute

Stephens' senior citizen center motion approved

by Linda Hodge, Editor

Senior Citizen Centers captured the attention of Coffee County Commissioners Monday morning, Jan. 28, as the members dealt with a dispute over a grant application to build more centers within the county.

During the Jan. 14 commission meeting, Commissioner Robert Stephens made a motion to amend an already approved motion which called for the county to apply for a $250,000 grant for the construction of a senior center in the Mt. Pleasant community.

With Stephens' amendment, the grant application would also include a senior center in the Ino Community.

Commissioner Doug Dalrymple, who represents the people of the Mt. Pleasant community in District 4, was against Stephens' motion indicating that he wanted to build and operate one center in his district rather than three or four. Stephens said he did not want to take anything away from Dalrymple or his district, but he felt applying for one grant to build two centers would save the county approximately $100,000 in regards to coming up with matching funds for the grant.

Stephens' motion was tabled at that time for further discussion during a work session, however, he again brought the matter to the attention of the commission during Monday's meeting.

"I have spoken with our senator and representative and they feel we have a better chance of receiving the grant if we go together," said Stephens.

His motion to take the matter off the table and then vote on the motion made during the Jan. 14 meeting received a second from Commissioner Bernest Brooks.

Commissioner Jim Thompson expressed his concern for building more senior centers in that he wondered how the commission could keep spending money based on projections when the future of the landfill is uncertain.

The motion passed with a 4-3 vote. Commissioners Stephens, Brooks, Linda Westbrook, and Kayo Lewis voted in favor, and Commissioners Tom Grimsley, Thompson and Dalrymple voted against.

At that point, Stephens restated his motion from the Jan. 14 meeting which called for the county to revise its grant application for $250,000 for the Mt.

Pleasant Senior Citizen Center to build two centers (Mt. Pleasant and Ino) with the county to supply the required matching funds. His motion was also called for the Ino Senior Citizen Center to be built the same as the Damascus and Pine Level Senior Citizen Centers.

Dalrymple again expressed his disapproval by saying out of each district in the county there is a senior citizen center except Mt. Pleasant. He said he had a commitment for the building, and he felt the grant application should be left alone.

"I'm all for Mt. Pleasant having one, but we built two centers for $250,000," said Stephens. "I don't see building one twice the size as the other centers in the county."

Dalrymple said the Mt. Pleasant area has more people living there than any other district in the county, and he feels there is a need for a different type of building there.

With that said, the commission put the motion to a vote.

Commissioner Brooks asks for support for Senior FMNP

During the Coffee County Commission meeting Monday morning, Jan. 28, Commissioner Bernest Brooks urged the commission to show its support of the Farmers' Market Nutrition Program.

"Mr. (Robert) Stephens and I worked hard to get this program started," Brooks said. "I think the program was a total success, but we have some people in the federal government ready to cut expenses."

He said severe cuts are expected for the 2002 WIC and Senior Farmers' Market Nutrition Programs. According to reports, the WIC Farmers' Market Nutrition Program will be cut 49 percent and the Senior Farmers' Market Nutrition Program will be cut 33 percent in all states.

Brooks said not only do the senior citizens of Coffee County benefit from this program, but local farmers benefit as well.

The FY2002 agriculture appropriations bill allows $25 million for the WIC Farmers' Market Nutrition Program and $25 million for the Senior Farmers' Market Nutrition Program, and Brooks urged senior citizens Monday morning to call their local representatives and let them know how important the Farmers' Market Nutrition Program is to the people.

"I want us to send a letter asking our congressmen and representatives to support the program," Brooks said.

This was approved by a unanimous vote.

Also, Brooks urged everyone to contact Agriculture Secretary Ann Veneman and ask her to release these funds in the full amount allocated. Veneman can be contacted by:

Bob Inman planning Elba visit for Feb. 2 to sign his new book

Bob Inman will be autographing his new novel, "Captain Saturday" in Elba on Saturday, February 2nd. He will be at the Briar Patch, on the square in Elba, beginning at 1:00 p.m. Saturday afternoon.

This is the fourth major novel by the Elba native who now makes Charlotte, NC his home. Inman also published "Home Fires Burning," "Old Dogs and Children," and "Dairy Queen Days." The first, "Home Fires Burning," was selected as a feature on the Hallmark Hall of Fame and Inman was hired to write the screenplay. He also wrote another script for the Hallmark Hall of Fame, "The Summer of Ben Tyler."

This new book is the story of a well known TV weatherman in Raleigh, NC. It smoothly tells the story of his upbringing, from about age 13, through the teen years, college, and the ups and downs of his marriage and his career. Many early readers of the book have reported readily identifying with the highs and lows which plague the life of the main character, Will Baggott.

Along the way there was also the publishing of a collection of his nonfiction work, "Coming Home: Life, Love, and All Things Southern," and several successful television screenplays in addition to the two for Hallmark. Inman is presently writing the screenplay for his novel, "Dairy Queen Days." In 1996 he retired from a career of television newscasting and turned his full attention to his successful book writing and screenplay work.

BRAINSTORMS

with Ferrin Cox

It seems that when the Alabama Legislature is in session, the Brainstorms writer is upset. Today is no exception. Several weeks ago it was noted here that there were whisperings in Montgomery about voting a pay raise for teachers, in spite of the budget problems and the just passed tax to bail out the Education Trust Fund from the last round of spending. Well that is all out in the open now! In fact the noises are that there was enough additional money in that telephone tax to just about pay for the raise. Blah! If that is the truth today, it was the truth in December when the tax was passed and someone(s) again misled us gullible taxpayers.

Another thorn for us with that entire proposal is the upcoming vote by all us taxpayers to take from the oil trust fund to build a "rainy day account" to back up the Education Trust Fund. The verbal answers we get from lawmakers are, "Oh, we would never consider that fund in our budgeting plans." Do any of you readers believe that for one second? Okay, let's get in a holding pattern this year and fund the rainy day fund with income generated dollars. What, that isn't fair? It is the way good, solid business organizations fund their various projects.

The people of Alabama want to support education and the teachers, but a whole bunch are like us and are offended at continually being jerked around like a bunch of sheep. Oh, the pay raise will pass, this is an election year. Not only are there about 90,000 members (voters) of AEA out there, but the core of this organization knows how to multiply this number by their relatives, friends and neighbors throughout grassroots Alabama. The personal one-on-one works because these teachers are held in the highest regard and command (and deserve) great respect. Yet the last time we read the manual on good business management, pay raises, new cars, etc., are always put on hold when business is in a down cycle.

Last week there was a picture on the front page of this newspaper of Mark Vaughan carrying the Olympic torch on its way to the 2002 Winter Games in Salt Lake City, Utah. That one picture and the descriptive words don't do the whole event justice. It is quite an honor to be selected to participate in this event, as those of us who have reviewed the arm long lists of accomplishments of nominees can attest. In years past, we have been involved in the screening process for the Olympic torch bearers, and know first hand the honor that was bestowed on Mark. For sure a person is not selected, "because I want to do it." There are a lot of nominees and many very good people don't make the cut. Persons selected must have years of significant, unselfish accomplishments behind them to even make the first cut. Mark does and did. Salute.

Published author, and Elba native, Bob Inman has just released another novel, "Captain Saturday." It is the life story of the rise and fall of a very popular TV weatherman in Raleigh, NC. Now "cousin" Bob is coming home Saturday to sign autographs for his friends who want their own personal copy of the new book. Recently reading some of the rave reviews this book has received, our face flushed. It was as if the person reporting on his reading of the book was looking into our mind. This male reviewer commented that he is getting too old to be sitting up all night reading a book... which is exactly what happened to us. The book had been sitting on the little stand beside our favorite 'ole recliner for several days when it happened. Once started there wasn't a good stopping place. Granted, several days later we went back and re-read a number of the last pages, knowing our stale brain had been a bit groggy by the end of that first reading, but looking back it was all worth while.

Volunteers make a difference with Habitat for Humanity

by Linda Hodge, Editor

Habitat for Humanity of Coffee County is still a relatively new organization, but the members of the board are dedicated to the program's success. The goal of Habitat for Humanity is to reduce substandard living one home at a time. Thus far, Habitat for Humanity of Coffee County has completed one home in Enterprise and recently began construction of a second home, which is being built in Elba.

Construction of this home shows progress every day, but the organization still needs the help of volunteers.

Volunteers are vital to the success of Habitat for Humanity. The volunteers provide the help needed to keep the cost of the home down. Not only does volunteer work benefit Habitat for Humanity, but it also benefits those who volunteer their time.

A few years ago, I followed the progress of a project of Habitat for Humanity of Pike County.

Almost daily, there were people volunteering their time to help build that home. There were those with trained skills (carpenters, electricians, etc.), as well as people involved with school, church and civic organizations volunteering their time to help.

After all, you will have to stop them and Congress is working on expanding your rights to identify unsolicited sales calls at home.

With the growth of telemarketers and the introduction of computer-dated messages, millions of Americans have installed Caller ID services in their homes to screen their incoming calls for unwanted solicitations. For the most part, this works. Many telemarketing companies operate fairly and allow their calls to be identified. However, too many do not. In those cases, you will likely see "out-of-area," "private call" or "anonymous" on your Caller ID display. Not only do some telemarketers block their identity from showing up on Caller ID, but they cannot be identified on "60 and return call" systems. This is unfair, and Congress believes it should stop.

On December 4, the U.S. House of Representatives passed the Know Your Caller Act (HR 901). It would prohibit telemarketers from blocking their identities (company name and/or telephone number) from being transmitted to Caller ID devices. This is only fair since telemarketers obviously have such information about the people they are calling. The public therefore deserves the right to know who's calling them at home.

The Know Your Caller Act, which now moves to the U.S. Senate for consideration, builds on previous efforts by Congress to protect you from unwanted phone solicitations. In December 1991, President George Bush signed the Telephone Consumer Protection Act to give consumers rights in controlling the number of unsolicited calls to their home phones and fax machines.

The law requires telemarketers to keep lists of persons requesting not to be contacted at home again. When a person receives a telemarketing call at home, they should clearly state they want to be added to the telemarketers do not call list. The telemarketing company is then mandated to keep this information on file for 10 years and not to call the person again during that period.

Obviously, you can only ask to be placed on a do not call list if you speak to a live person. Many times, telemarketers are also using recorded sales pitches. This is another reason a requirement that telemarketers not block their identity to Caller ID services is also important.

Another tool at your disposal in limiting future telemarketing calls is offered from the Telephone Preference Service of the Direct Marketing Association. By contacting the Direct Marketing Association, you can request to be placed on a list of consumers who do not wish to be contacted by telemarketers. To get on this list, send your name, telephone number and address to the Telephone Preference Service, Direct Marketing Association, P.O. Box 9014, Farmingdale, New York, 11735-9014.

More information about your rights in dealing with telemarketers is also available from the Federal Communications Commission's special web link: http://www.fcc.gov/ceh/consumer_news/unsolich.html.

Thompson responded by assuring Darylmyre that his disappointment should be for the four commissioners who voted in favor of the motion and not the whole commission. Also, he again addressed his concern for how the county will continue to pay for additional senior citizen centers, especially with the landfill revenue questionable.

"If things happen and we can't pay for it, we will have to back off," said Commissioner Westbrook. "It's the same as any business."

In a matter of comparison, Stephens spoke of a commitment made by the then commission some five years ago to publicly thank Rep. Terry Spicer and Senator Jimmy Hotley at the next commission meeting (if they are available) for what they have done for Coffee County during the last session.

"I feel the county is in the best financial condition it has been in since I've been here," he said.

In other business, the commission:

- * Awarded the contract for lawn care at the courthouses in Elba and Enterprise to Fay's Nursery of Elba, Ala. The business supplied the low bid at $2,700 for the Elba Courthouse and $4,000 for the Enterprise Courthouse. Commissioner Jim Thompson said he feels the commission needs to hold the people who are awarded contracts to certain standards.

* Approved a credit application at the Coffee County Landfill for Southeast Roofing Company, Inc. of Montgomery.

* Approved a motion to open an account for the Zion Chapel Senior Citizen Center place monies earmarked for that particular center.

* Approved a motion to open and start serving meals at the Zion Chapel Senior Citizen Center on May 1st. The motion also approved the hiring of Terry Senn as director of the center. Commissioners Darylmyre and Thompson voted against this motion.

* Approved a motion made by Commissioner Darylmyre to publicly thank Rep. Terry Spicer and Senator Jimmy Hotley at the next commission meeting (if they are available) for what they have done for Coffee County during the last session.

The next meeting of the Coffee County Commission will be Monday, Feb. 11 at 9 a.m. in the community room at the county complex in New Brockton.

CRP contracts could be extended

The U.S. Department of Agriculture recently announced that Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) contracts expiring this year may be extended for another year. Participants with contracts expiring on Sept. 30, 2002 have from Jan. 14 to May 31, 2002, to apply for the one-year extension. Some 30,000 contracts are affected.

"The expiration affects 1.8 million rural acres now protected by the CRP. This action will help ensure the continued safeguarding of this sensitive land as a new farm bill is developed," said Agriculture Secretary Ann M. Veneman.

and it was approved with a 4-3 vote. Commissioners Stephens, Brooks, Westbrook and Lewis voted in favor with Commissioners Darylmyre, Thompson and Grimsley voting against the motion.

"I'm totally disappointed the commission would do this," said Darylmyre.

Thompson responded by assuring Darylmyre that his disappointment should be for the four commissioners who voted in favor of the motion and not the whole commission. Also, he again addressed his concern for how the county will continue to pay for additional senior citizen centers, especially with the landfill revenue questionable.

"If things happen and we can't pay for it, we will have to back off," said Commissioner Westbrook. "It's the same as any business."

In a matter of comparison, Stephens spoke of a commitment made by the then commission some five years ago to publicly thank Rep. Terry Spicer and Senator Jimmy Hotley at the next commission meeting (if they are available) for what they have done for Coffee County during the last session.

The next meeting of the Coffee County Commission will be Monday, Feb. 11 at 9 a.m. in the community room at the county complex in New Brockton.

CRP contracts could be extended

The U.S. Department of Agriculture recently announced that Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) contracts expiring this year may be extended for another year. Participants with contracts expiring on Sept. 30, 2002 have from Jan. 14 to May 31, 2002, to apply for the one-year extension. Some 30,000 contracts are affected.

"The expiration affects 1.8 million rural acres now protected by the CRP. This action will help ensure the continued safeguarding of this sensitive land as a new farm bill is developed," said Agriculture Secretary Ann M. Veneman.

Local offices of USDA's Farm Service Agency are currently Melanie will turn thirteen on Monday, and while having my baby girl become a teenager is bad enough, now we have to go out and find her a formal gown to wear to an upcoming dance at school. We looked at a few places last weekend, and I just couldn't picture her in an evening gown no matter how hard I tried. There can be no doubt that my little girl is growing up...too fast!

DUSTING OFF THE DESK...

 The Elba Tigers dropped their final two area games of the season to Pike County and Calhoun to close out the area race with a 3-3 record, and for the second straight year the Tigers will head up to Calhoun for the area tournament and once again will battle Pike County for the right to advance to sub-region play. While the Tigers did drop both area games last week, they didn't really play all that bad, and still appear to have solid shot at making it past the area tournament. The recent play of Tim Andrews (6-4) inside has given the Tigers an added weapon and some much needed depth, and now is the time for the Tigers to begin to peak. C'mon Tigers, a winning record is nice, but the games that really count are still to come and you can still make a lot of noise!

 The Elba Lady Tigers clinched a share of the area title with a wild win up in Calhoun on Friday night, and will have to flip a coin to see if they get to host the tournament for the second straight season. The Lady Tigers bounced back from two straight losses to upset Calhoun on its home court, and even if the Elba girls aren't playing their best basketball of the season right now, they do know what it takes to win, and that is what matters. I look for the Lady Tigers to regain their momentum in the next week and to be ready and waiting when the area tournament tips off. These girls are still very much in the hunt for a trip to Troy State.

 The Kinston Bulldogs continued their late-season swoon last week with road losses to G.W. Long and Arton, and the Bulldogs will now have to rely on the luck of a flip of the coin to avoid area champion G.W. Long in the opening round of the area tournament. The Bulldogs have split with Zion Chapel and Arton and have to like their chances against both teams at a neutral site. However, the 'Dogs have yet to get past Long, and an opening round date with the Rebels could very well end the season for Kinston. The Kinston Lady Bulldogs clinched a share of the area championship last week and it was really quite an honor for Coach Keith Smith and his young girls. The Kinston girls basketball program has struggled for years, but is now headed in the right direction, and the Lady Bulldogs appear to have a real chance at earning a sub-region berth.

 The New Brockton Gamecocks continued their improved play last week, but simply could not find a win against area foes Samson and Barbour County, and now have a date with the defending state champions from Barbour County in the opening round of the area tournament. The Gamecocks aren't anywhere near as good as their record might indicate, and could still get a few wins before they hang up the sneakers. The Lady Gamecocks dropped area contests to Samson and Barbour County and must now face Samson in the opening round of the area tournament. The Lady Gamecocks are 0-2 against the girls form Samson this season, and will have to play their best if they hope to advance.

 The Zion Chapel Rebels suffered a couple of road losses last week, but if the Rebels can claim a win in the upcoming coin toss, they could still have a solid chance at making it to sub-region action. The Rebels play hard every time they hit the court, and if they get a break and can avoid G.W. Long in the area tournament, they could still have some fun left. The Lady Rebels only dressed out five players in their games last week due to injuries and illness, and even though they lost both games, the Lady Rebels never slowed down and played hard from the opening tip to the final horn. The Zion Chapel girls may have their work cut out for them in the area tournament, but their record means nothing. They have proven they belong and will be around for years to come in basketball.

 The Brantley Bulldogs have continued to grow as a team during the season as they have gained experience, and it looks like the Bulldogs are headed in the right direction. Many of the Brantley fans got spoiled by the Bulldogs over the years as they piled up the state titles. However, this new batch of 'Dogs is growing up fast, and could still have a few surprises up their sleeves. The Lady Bulldogs lost a heartbreaker to Pleasant Home, but is still a very good team and should make it to sub-region play. The Lady Bulldogs have some very talented players and more than their share of weapons, and still have some wins left to chalk up this season.

 I have never really been much of a pro football fan, but the playoffs have been exciting from the start, and I am actually looking forward to the super bowl. With no clear cut power, maybe this years game will finally live up to its billing.

 In closing...the grass is starting to turn green, and that means that baseball and softball season can't be far behind. A new team at Elba High this spring will be the junior varsity baseball team, coached by Winn Grimes. The baseball team has needed a junior varsity program for years, and now that the Tigers finally have one, look for the program to get better and better, real soon. This season will also mark the beginning of a new sport as the girls begin to compete in fast-pitch softball. The city's recreation department switched to fast-pitch last season, which should help in the JV program. However, for the older girls it will be the beginning of something new. It should be fun!

Tigers drop area finale to Calhoun 67-55

The Elba Tigers closed out Class 3A, Area 2 action Friday night against the defending 3A state champion Calhoun Tigers, and battled hard for four quarters in a tough 67-55 loss at Calhoun.

The loss dropped Elba's record to 13-4, 3-3 in area play, while Calhoun improved to 21-7 and closed area play with a 6-0 slate.

Calhoun jumped out to an early 5-0 lead and owned a 10-4 advantage with 5:08 remaining in the opening stanza, only to see the Tigers cut the lead to 10-6 on a driving lay-up by Kyle English. The English basket was the final point of the quarter for Elba; however, and by the end of the stanza Calhoun had taken command and owned a big 17-6 lead.

Calhoun's lead grew to 21-8 early in the second quarter and it looked like the state's top team was ready to blow out their visitors from Coffee County, but Elba suddenly came to life on both ends of the court and used its fast break to go on an 8-2 run and cut the Calhoun lead to 23-16 with 4:09 left in the quarter.

Calhoun turned back the Tiger rally and regained control at 30-18 with 2:03 remaining in the half, only to see Elba stage yet another rally and cut the lead to 30-24 after two fast-break baskets by Marcus Henderson and John Mitchell.

A short jumper by Mitchell with 7:18 left in the third quarter got the Tigers as close as 30-26, and Elba was still within four points with 6:50 remaining in the quarter after a basket by Tim Andrews, cut the Calhoun lead to 32-28. A 6-0 run gave Calhoun a 38-28 lead midway through the quarter; however, and the closest the Tigers could get the rest of the stanza was at 42-35 after a long three-pointer by Kyle English. Elba trailed 48-37 heading into the fourth quarter, and never got any closer than nine points for the rest of game as Calhoun remained in command and claimed the home win 67-55.

John Mitchell scored 22 points to lead Elba, while Kyle English and Marcus Henderson both added 10 points. Leonard Scott scored 15 points to lead Calhoun, while Marcus Miller added 12, Travis Baker 11 and Eldrick Lewis 10.

Laura Cirone named to 2002 Presidential Scholars

Laura Cirone, a graduating senior at Alabama School of Fine Arts, has been named one of more than 2,600 candidates in the 2002 Presidential Scholars Program. The candidates were selected from nearly 2.5 million students expected to graduate from U.S. high schools in the year 2002.

Now is the 39th year, inclusion in the Presidential Scholars Programs is one of the highest honors bestowed upon graduating high school seniors. Scholars are selected on the basis of superior academic and artistic achievements, leadership qualities, and involvement in community and school activities.

The 2,600 candidates were selected for their exceptional performance on either the College Board SAT or the ACT Assessment. Further consideration is based on students' essays, self-assessments, descriptions of activities, school recommendations, and school transcripts. A distinguished panel of educators will review these submissions and select 500 semifinalists in early April.

The Commission on Presidential Scholars, a group of some 32 eminent citizens appointed by the President, will make the final selection of the scholars. They will select one young man and one young woman from each state, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and U.S. students living abroad; 15 students at-large; and up to 20 students from the creative and performing arts. The U.S. Department of Education will announce the scholars in May.

Scholars will be invited to Washington, DC, for several days in June to receive the Presidential Scholars medalion at a recognition ceremony and to participate in activities with their elected representatives, and others in public life.

Laura is the daughter of Emil and Cynthia Cirone.

Alabama Dept. of Revenue offers information to taxpayers

In the efforts to make the 2002 filing season as trouble-free as possible, the Alabama Department of Revenue offers the following information to taxpayers.

Correction Notice for 2001 Tax Booklet Instructions

The department urges taxpayers to take note of recent changes made in certain federal line item references contained in the instruction sections of the Alabama Form 40A, Alabama Form 40A, and Alabama Form 40NR tax booklets.

Changes made in the order of certain federal line items occurred after the department had begun printing the state income tax booklets.

FORM 40A (Short Form)

On Part IV page 2, line one of the Alabama Form 40A:

Reads: Form 1040EZ - Enter the amount from line 10.

Should be: Form 1040EZ - Enter the amount from line 11.

Reads: Form 1040A - Enter the amount from line 33.

Should be: Form 1040A - Enter the amount from line 34.

Form 40 Instruction Booklet

Instructions for Part V, Page 2 - Federal Tax Liability

Reads: (2) Form 1040EZ - Enter the amount from line 10.

Should be: (2) Form 1040EZ - Enter the amount from line 11.

Reads: (3) Form 1040A - Enter the amount from line 33.

Should be: (3) Form 1040A - Enter the amount from line 34.

Helpful Filing Reminders

Form 40V - Payment Voucher

If you owe additional tax, be sure to complete a FORM 40V and include it along with your check or money order. (If you pay by credit card, do not complete the FORM 40V.)

Complete a FORM 40V for both paper-filed and electronically-filed returns. The FORM 40V will be used by the department to identify your tax payment by check or money order, apply it, and match it to your return for processing.

Credit Card Payment Option

If you owe additional tax, you may be able to use your credit card to pay your taxes. Alabama taxpayers can use their Discover/NOVUS, MasterCard, or American Express card by making a toll-free call to the state's service provider, Official Payments Corporation, at 1-800-2PAY-TAX. New this year is the option to pay by Internet, by logging on to www.officialpayments.com. A charge customer pays a convenience fee for using the credit card payment service. This fee is paid directly to Official Payments Corporation based on the amount of your tax payment. The state receives no part of the convenience fee.

Federal Tax Liability Deduction

If you claim a federal tax liability deduction of your 2001 Alabama income tax form, you must attach a copy of page 2 of your 2001 FEDERAL FORM 1040 or page 1 of your 2001 FEDERAL FORM 1040A or 1040EZ, or a copy of your TELEFILE Schedule.

Taxpayers are cautioned to enter only the federal income tax liability amount from the federal returns, not the amount of federal income tax withheld for the tax year.

Federal Income Tax Refund Credit (Federal Refund)

If you received a federal income tax refund last year, do not report the refund on your 2001 Alabama income tax return. Starting this year, taxpayers are no longer required to report their previous tax year's federal refund. Changes made in the calculation of one's federal income tax liability no longer require the reporting of the federal income tax refund as an income item on the Alabama return.

Federal Advanced Tax Credit (Federal Refund)

If you received a federal tax rebate from the Internal Revenue Service in 2001, you must report the amount you received on your Alabama 2001 tax return. Note that the federal advanced tax credit will not be shown as an income item on your Alabama return. It will, instead, be used to calculate the amount of your total federal income tax deduction under the "deductions" section of your 2001 Alabama return.

Consumer Use Tax Reporting Line Item

Taxpayers who purchased items online or through catalog or mail-order sales during 2001, and did not pay any sales or use tax on the out-of-state retailer are able to report and pay the Alabama consumer use tax due when filing their 2001 tax year return. This is the second year that the department has offered this convenient payment and reporting procedure to taxpayers. Note that the state use tax is the same as the state sales tax if purchased in Alabama. Examples of taxable items and reporting procedures are detailed in the instruction booklets.

New Checkoffs Added

The 2001 return offers a new refund donation checkoff and a new Alabama election campaign fund checkoff to taxpayers. Act 2001-465 established the new checkoff donation designated for the Alabama Breast and Cervical Cancer Research Program. Donations will be distributed to the University of Alabama at Birmingham's Comprehensive Cancer Center Research Program to be used in the fight against breast and cervical cancer.

The Libertarian Party is the new Alabama election campaign fund checkoff featured on the 2001 return, provided in accordance with §17-16-2 and §40-18-146, Code of Alabama 1975.
